Warning Concerning Copyright Restrictions

The Copyright Law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions or use of copyrighted materials. Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specific conditions is that the photocopy, reproduction or material is not to be used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship or research. If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy, reproduction, or material for purposes in excess of fair use, that user may be liable for copyright infringement. In general, Rare Books and Special Collections is not the copyright holder for its materials. It is the responsibility of the patron to adhere to all applicable copyright law when seeking permission to publish. The Library is not able to assist in identifying the copyright holders. In requesting the use of images and materials for use in publication, I assume all responsibility for possible infringement of copyright and/or literary rights and will attempt to secure permission where required for use.

I have read and will abide by the terms outlined above.
